Campus Resources

Below are a series of scenarios you may or may not experience here at Calvin (or maybe you already have and didn't know where to go). For each use the campus resource guide on moodle to decide which office or department you should go to.

1. You have some spiritual questions that have been weighing on your heart. You have gone to Loft and have been incredibly blessed by the messages of the campus ministry team and would just like to chat about some topics like forgiveness, regret, and struggles that you have been having.

2. You took AP English in High School, got college credit for it and thought you were all set. Now you have papers that are coming back with red marks all over them. You decide it can't hurt to have another set of eyes look over your paper that is worth 30% of your final grade. You even heard they will give you feedback on presentations!

3. You are thinking about a semester abroad but really don't know what is available to you and how feasible it is.

4. You have experienced some hard times with friends and family in the past and are slowly realizing that all those experiences may have impacted you more than you thought. Counseling might be a great option after all.

5. You are completely disorganized and are driving your room-mate crazy with your inability to find anything that you need at the time that you need it. You don't find the material difficult, but you're not doing well because you just can't seem to "get it all together." You decide that an academic coach would be just the resource for you so you commit to sign up!

6. After our first FYS class on vocation, you are really wondering if being a business major is really a good fit. You decide an internship might give you a better idea.

7. You are not feeling well and you can't get an appointment with your primary care physician for another three months.
